

Dear Friend of Preservation,

The Historic Preservation Trust is proud to be part of Lancaster County's rich history since its founding in 1966 to "stem the rapid destruction of historic properties in Lancaster County." We are the only county-wide, non-profit organization dedicated solely to preserving architectural heritage. For 60 years, the organization has stayed true to this objective while expanding its reach and remaining relevant.

In an ever-changing world, isn't it good to know we are still here protecting, collaborating, educating, and communicating the very real values of historic preservation throughout all 60 municipalities in Lancaster County? There is that number 60 again! We are proudly based in the historically significant 1787 Sehner-Ellicott-von Hess House; home to Andrew Ellicott, the first U.S. Surveyor General, who taught Meriwether Lewis surveying techniques prior to an upcoming trip to the Western Territories otherwise known as the Lewis & Clark Expedition.

Our Board of Directors, members, volunteers, patrons, friends of preservation and staff are poised to continue the good work begun by our Founders. To do this we need additional financial support and invite you to become a vital sponsor of the Historic Preservation Trust's 2026 events and educational programs, including one heck of a 60th anniversary celebration this fall.

We are proud to present the following new sponsorship opportunities, including two separate Bundled Packages for fundraising and educational events. By becoming a sponsor for the Historic Preservation Trust of Lancaster County, you reap significant visibility for your company and make a profound difference in your community.

Thank you for your consideration. If you would like to discuss these opportunities and explore how we can partner to preserve our past and enrich our future, drop me a note at director@hptrust.org.

Warm regards,

Danielle Keperling,
Executive Director
Historic Preservation Trust of Lancaster County
